Forecast for Friday 23 Sep 2022

Weather: A dry and clear overnight period and turning quite cold leading into a bright and sunny morning, perhaps a few mist and fog patches first thing. A lot of sunshine throughout the day but a few showers developing and one or two of these quite heavy for a time, moving through quite quickly in the cool northwesterly winds.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 90% some patches of low cloud in the morning and around showers.

Low Cloud and visibility: Patches of cloud above 600m in the morning especially around more exposed northerly tops. Cloud mostly lifting but patches may reform in afternoon showers around 700m and above. Visibility mostly good, although moderate or poor in early mist and in any showers.
